Celebrating Young Hearts- A Children's Day with Majholi Students

As part of Children's Day celebrations, volunteers from SFY (Shoolinians For You) organized an outreach visit to the Government School, Majholi, with the aim of creating a joyful, engaging, and meaningful experience for young students. The initiative focused on spreading happiness while reinforcing values of learning, confidence, and inclusion.

The volunteers interacted with children through fun-based learning activities, including games, group interactions, and creative exercises designed to suit the age group. Emphasis was placed on encouraging participation, teamwork, and self-expression in a friendly and supportive environment. The activities were structured to ensure that children felt heard, valued, and motivated.

In addition to recreational engagement, the volunteers shared simple messages around good habits, confidence, and dreaming big, using stories and interactive dialogue to make the learning relatable. The visit helped create a positive connection between university volunteers and school students, fostering a sense of encouragement and inspiration.

The Children's Day celebration at Majholi Government School reflected SFY's commitment to community engagement, inclusive education, and youth empowerment, ensuring that the day was memorable and uplifting for every child present.
