

Balanced Participation in Society: Gender Equality - Report

Report No.: UR06/0324

Date: 07th March 2024

“Gender equality is more than a goal in itself. It is a precondition for meeting the challenge of reducing poverty, promoting sustainable development and building good governance.” - Kofi Annan

Unnat Bharat Abhiyan Cell – AUR in association with Gender Cell – AUR, Amity School of Engineering & Technology [ASET] and Amity School of Languages [ASL] came together to celebrate every female on International Women's Day. A special event was organized at Syari Village School promoting the "Balanced Participation in Society: Gender Equality" to empower and inspire the young girls of the community.

The event commenced with an enlightening session on the significance of yoga and asanas for female health. The girls were encouraged to embrace these practices to enhance physical and mental well-being. Motivational speeches were delivered, emphasizing the importance of women's empowerment. One of the highlights of the event was the interactive game named ‘Dum Charades,’ where the girls enthusiastically enacted famous slogans related to women's rights.

Img.: UBA Volunteers interacting with girl students in village school.

Following this, a crucial session on recognizing the difference between good touch and bad touch was conducted, ensuring that the girls were equipped with the knowledge and confidence to protect themselves. A quiz based on notable women's achievements was conducted to make them aware of the remarkable achievements of women. The event concluded with a heartwarming certificate distribution ceremony, where the girls were recognized and applauded for their active participation and achievements throughout the day.

Img.: UBA Representatives facilitating the young girls.